Blaine is a bumble-bee to the democratic party. Since last Friday afternoon, Mr. Tilden has been sicker than ever. It was an unlucky day for the old Cipher.

If "Mo-too" Platt can ride on the loaded wagon, Mr. Conkling will not have to stretch his conscience much in his effort to jump abourd.

One democratic paper, the New York Sun, reminds the democratic leaders that of the party. Mr. Biame is no slouch, and that it will be very hard to beat him.

political thermometer will average about 110 in the shade during the can paign, which will be too hot for the health of the democratic party.

Mr. Blaine is the Houry Clay of the republican party, but unlike flenry Clay in one thing-he will write no Alabama letter that will cost him the election.

Senator Sherman's spirit has the right ring about it: "I shall support the troket heartily. I am a republican and shall support the nominees of the party, of

In 1876 when Bob Ingersoll neminated Blaine at Cinomnati. he described him as "A leader with the grandest combina tion of heart, conscience and brain known to the American people."

Colonel E. W. Keyes, of Madison, has been appointed on the committee to notity Blame of his nomination. The committee will meet at the Parker house Boston, June 20, and will proceed to Augusta by special train.

John R. Lynch, the colored man who won additional fame as the temporary chairman of the republican convention was a photographer in Nathez till General Butler's con-in-law, Governor Ameeput him into politics.

There is only one thing the democrats can do during the campaign—that is to throw mud. They never could rise above such an occupation. They have no principles to contend for, no record to beast of, and no reason to give why they should be exalted to power. They have nothing to do but to man their mud-

Senator Cameron, of this state, said in Washington on Saturday: "Mr. Blane is without doubt the preference of a maiority of the republicans. I am a strong personal admirer of General Logan, and should have been glad to see him nominated, but I am heartily pleased with the result as it is, and have not a floubt of the success of the ticket.

The leading London papers enthuse considerably over the nomination of Blaine. The Daily News predicts that Mr. Blaine will prove a worthy successor to the lamented Garfield. The Daily Tel. ec. inh sees in the noningation no menace to England. The Times presses it in the most unqualified terms, prononneing Mr. Blame "beyond all question the most conspicuous politician of the republican party." That party, it adds, "has done steelf honor by the nomination of so wellknown and so distinguished a man"-one who is "eminently fitted to represent and uphold the dignity of the United States." When Blaine can carry the London press there is not much danger that he will fail to carry New York.

DR. KEMPSTER'S CASE.

The following paragraphs are taken from the Evening Wiscousin: The manner in which Dr. Kemiston has been deposed from the superintend-ency of the Northern nospital for the insana, ja unbusinessiska and unfoir. * On sane, is undesidessine and unitar. Of Friday a news dispatch was sent out from Madison, stating that his successor had been elected. Subsequently Dr. Kempster received official notification to the same effect, unaccompanied, 22 he states, by any explanation whalever.

The people have no desire to set themselves up as defenders of Dr. Kampster. but they are champions of fair play, and are quick to concern unfairness by whomsoever exhibited.

State board of control removed Dr. Kempster in any spirit of ill-will, and that is never presumed to do him an injustice. The Ever

The Gazette does not believe that the Ling Wisconsin will clearly remem ber that the state has had more or les trouble with Dr. Kempster. While be is trouble with Dr. Kempster. While ho is a physician and the people a man of wide repute as a physician and has a national reputation as an expert in cases of insently, his connection with the Northers he put for the insane at Oshkash, has not been for trouble for the mental for the insane at Oshkash, has not been for trouble for him of the property of the insane at Oshkash, has not been for trouble for him of the property of th was cause enough to warrant the State ed. But there is a positive cure in Ely's board of control in removing him. Then, Cream Balm. We could cram these colboard of control in removing him. Then, again, the scandal which recently spread over the state with which the doctor's name was connected, may have been among the influences that led the board to act unanimously in dismissing him.

Such a condition of things is unfortunate for the state and distressing to Dr. Kemp for the state and distressing to Dr. Kemp-control had the best interests of the Northern hospital at heart, and after spending some time in thoughtfully considering the matter, decided to supersede him with Dr. Wiggington.

THE MAN BLAINE AND WHAT HE CAN

□James G. Blaine, the republican nominee for the presidency, is the Henry Clay of the republican party.

As Clay was the idol of the whig party

Blaine is the most popular idol of all living republicans to-day. He is the most dashing, brilliant, magnetic and inspiring leader a party has had in this country since the days of Like Clay, he was the foremost leader of his party in congress, and at any time could vanquish the boldest of his rivals in any conflict on the floor.

He is an intellectual athlete, and in the arens of debate never knew a defeat-Like an armed warrior, like a plumed knight, James G. Blaine-marched down the halls of the American congress and threw his shiping lance full and fair against the brazen foreheads of the detamers of his country and his honor."

Like Clay he is the most admired, the most beloved, the most feared, and the most hated of any of the fearless leaders Lake Clay he was the popular choice of the people, and like the (Harry of the West, was nominated by the people. Like Clay he is the knight errant of political chivalry, the worshiped of his party, and the masterspirit of his own campaign. Ho is no canting hypocrite, but the frankest of men and the most daring and ablest of political warriors. Like Clay be a the boldest of partiana and prefers a republican to a democrat, and believes that honest republicans should fill the offices. As John VanBuren once said, he will run like the cholera. He will kindle an enthusiasm that will sweep the country like's western tornado. He will sweep every northern state, be Pacific coast, and West Virginia. The party will follow him with the same devotion that the great army of Napoleon followed him through the snows of Russia

He will open the battle of 1884 with a spontaneous earnestness and energy in all sections of the country, and in every state in the union the Blaine bauner. will be cheered by the people.

He will make Ohio sure in October and will make every doubtful republican state certain in November. He will overcome the German preju dice against him, and will make the republicans of that nationality shout for Blaine and Logan.

He will break every shaft of envy, disarm every dart of malice, and spike every mud machine pointed at him. He will bring into the campaign an enthusiasm for the Plumed Knight that has not been equaled since the memorable campaign of 1860, whent "Honest Abe," the rail-splitter, swept all the northern states.

His administration will be the most brilliant, positive, and energetic, the country has ever seen.

GRANT'S FIVE CENT RIDE.

How the Great Warrier Comes and Goes Unnoticed.

["Caspar" in Detroit Free Press.] A few days ago I observed another illusration of a peculiarity of New York life that has been noticed more than once in these jottings, namely, the way celebrities are lost sight of in the crowd. It was in one of Mr. Vanderbilt's Fourth avenue cars, on a trip from the postofiles to Union square. All the seats were occupied.

All the seats were occupied.

Noar the rear door sat a thick-set man with a florid face, whiskers mixed with gray, keen blue eyes, and a general appearance of solin respectability. I saw at once on entering the car that I was to have Gen. Grant as a sort of companion du voyage, so to speak. But no one else seemed to have a suspicion of the stout and florid man's identity. So far as I could observe he did not attract a clauce of curiosity. The conductor collected his fare evidently without a thought of whose hand it was from which the nickel was taken. The it was from which the nickel was takon. The persons on the opposite seat let their eyes wander up and down in the usual vacant way without resting them an instant on the here of Appenantox. New-comers crewding in pressed past him without the slightest show of recognition. A noisy newsboy thrust an evening paper in his face as he would if the face belonged to a man who had never been heard of.

One man among the new comers squeezed over been heard or.

One man among the new comers squeezed into a small place beside him, and crowded him a good deal in doing so, without ever looking at him. For that matter, though, o one looked at him more than at any one else, for it was evident that no one knew him. I have seen the same sort of thing in a leading theatre, where Gen. Grant occupied a front seat in a box, and the audience did not seem to be aware of his presence at all, and I have seen him walking down. Broadway in have seen him walking down. Broadway in the crewd when not more than one person in 100 took any notice of him. On the last oc-casion he rode from the postolice to Union square, anyway, in a crowded car, without recognition, and he may have gone on to his home near Central park the same way. Now York is not a place for celebrities to shine in except on special eccasions. When they get into the crowd, even the greatest of them is pretty sure to be lost. But it certainly is rather singular that a man so well known as Gen. Grant should come and go in public places, as he often does, with as little notice as if he were a stranger.

Bonts, Bleycles and Bay Fever. Nature has resolved that all the peokosh, has not been tertunate for him or profitable to the institution.

The Gazette has been informed on very good authority that Dr. Kempster has been absent from the Northern begind very much of the time without proper reasons, which, of itself, was cause enough to warrant the State ed. But there is a positive cure in Elyster of the profit of the pocket and leave the disease unabatter. umns with grateful letters of the rescued. Try it and join them. If you continue to suffer it is because you neglect a remedy as sure as it is cheap and pleasster and his family. The State board of purely vogetable liquid remedy; large bottle, 25 cents. At all druggists.

GREETING THE NOMINEE.

Arrival of the California Delegation at Augusta

They Are Given a Hospitable Reception-Mr. Blatne's Speech-Talk in Washington City-Roosevelt-Political News.

Augusta, Me., June 10.-The Californi and Maine delegations arrived here about o'clock p. m. All along the route from Bos-ton they were greeted by large crowds of people, who waved their hats and cheered. At Portland several hundred were in waiting, who received the delegation with continued cheers. A band played stirring airs and cannon boomed a welcome. Chairman Wing addressed the crowd; also Judge Knight, of California. Every word the latter said was cheered. At Brunswick another andience of several hundred was assembled, and several ears full of people were waiting to join the train, already well filled. Col. McClure was introduced to speak for the Californians, and he was received with hearty cheers. In closing the latter said: "The Pacific states will roll up a tremendous majority that will more than offset the glam backwardness of some Ropublicans, who comind mo of the steer that responses who control not unsteer that tried to jump a fonce but landed with his horns on one side and the hoels caught on the other, and there remained, much be go forward or backward. I need not say that I refur to the Massachusetts dades." Contractors Seatelly of Writer Fellowed. Then resaman Soutelle, of Maine, followed. Then the Bowdoin college students cheered the candidates, the speakers and the states, and the train moved on with 1,200 people on board. On arriving here the booming of cannon, ringing of bells, music of bands, and a great crowd of men and women greeted the dusty but onthusiastic delega

Eath sent six cor-loads, and Lewiston and Bangor five each, and delegations came from Skowlegan, Fairfield, Waterville, and Oakland. Prominent in the Bangor delegation was Haupibal Hamlin. The rain at 7 o'clock was severe enough to drive a part of the crowd to their homes, but there re-mained a jam to receive the guests when the train arrived. When the train arrived the ongive was decorated with flags and bunt-ing. A large picture of Blaine was in the headlight, and on the forward car a large inscription, "Lowiston and Auburn great the California delegation; for president, James Ex-Governor Connor delivered a formal address of welcome to the visitors. Closing, be said: "If Maine and Illinois shall win in 1884, as Illinois and Maine did in 1860, we, of less, as fattors and maine did in 1800, we, or this district and state, which we served so long and faithfully, believe that you will flad your best thanks in the administration which your candidate will give the country. Again, gentlemen, I bid you wel-come. As friends of James G. Blaine you need no passport to the regard of his neighbors in the city of his home. "Governor Days of California vahome. "Governor Davis, of California, responded at length. His romarks were greeted with prolonged applaase. There were then eries for Hannibal Hamile, who appeared, erect and vigorous. An ovation fit for a king grooted him. Not even at Blaino king grooted him. Not even at Blainot, house was the responsive chord of human mature so thrillingly touched as when, with bared head and flashing eye that all the multitude could see him. Cheer upon cheer swelled upon the air. Nothing during the day could begin to compare with this moment in dramatic interest. "It stirs the black of search substitute that we had.

this moment in dramatic interest. "It stirs the blood of age and makes the pulse beat and throb," he said, "to be in a scene like this. I rejoice in being able to meet the sons of California who have fought so gallant a fight side by side with the sons of Maine, and have gained such a triumph. It was a battle of undisciplined men against the trained and drilled forces of regulars, but the chieftain they have chosen will, with thoir and and that of undivided ranks of Republican voters. that of undivided ranks of Republican votes, sweep the country like a fire on a western rairle. Heartly we great these sons of the rest. You see around you the faces of mon who, with their compatriots, will give the man you have chosen as your leader, a majurity of 25,000 votes as he leaves the Pine Tree state. Oh! we men of Maine will send over the wire such a majority as will cheer the hearts and fire the brains of the men of as ours there is no such word as fail, and shall not fail. As he closed the refrain was caught up by the crowd, and it was some minutes before the turnult ceased sufficiently to allow Judge Knight, of California, to be introduced. "I Kriight, of California, to be introduced. "I hardly know, he said, how to begin to say a few words. While that aged and honored friend, Haenihal Handin, was speaking, I was deeply affected. My mind went back to the stormy days of '01 and '02, when that lovest and revered friend of humanity, Abraham Lincoln, and the honored and aged friend now with us, stood as a barrier between us and defeat, and I thought: Here I am at the house of true Republicanism; here white over the honored brow of age, you raise up another giant to lead us on to victory. We have now as a leader a representation of mer. have now as a leader a representative American, a representative Republican, a representative statesman, a typical American God's noblest work—an honest man."

A procession was formed and proceeded to Mr. Blaine's bouse, and the Californians were received with clapping of hands as they passed into the house. They were most cordially received by Mr. Blaine as Senator Mc-Clure presented each by name, and a conversation ensued, which was broken up by Senator Hamlin coming in and being presented. Mr. Blaine then went to the door, where he was received with chours. Gen. Conner addressed him in a short speech, and was fol-lowed by Congressman Bontelle, Mr. Elnino then said:

"Freilow-Citizens: If anything could add to the pleasure of welcoming to my door and under my roof my old friends of Maine, it would be, as it is to-day, to have them accompunied by loyal and true-hearted men from the Pacific coast, whom they bring to our hospitality and whom we greet and welcome as our guests. I am very sure you must appreciate the embarrassment under which a man speaks when he is overwhelmed with demonstrations of kindness, as I am to-day. I can only say, from the depths of a profoundly thankful heart, "God bless you all." [Cries of "Good!" and tremendous uppliause.] then said:

all." [Cries of "Good!" and tremendous appliause.]

Mr. Boutelle followed briefly, and was succeeded by Senator McClure, who concluded by introducing Judge George Knight, of California, who paid a tribute to Lincoln and Hamlin. The California delegation then took leave of Blaine and retired, and the crowd streamed by the door shaking hands with Mr. Blaine. At the reception to the California delegation which followed, J. M. Haynes, of Augusta, made a speech of welcome, and ex-Governor Davis replied.

POLITICAL MISCELLANY.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 10.—The report that Tilden would not under any circumstances be a candidate has only sharpened the appetite and increased the domaid for him. The general impression now seems to be that the convention will nominate him and adjourn to await his answer. Even if he should send a letter declining, it is not improbable that the convention will pursue this course. The report of his declination has awakened the ather possible candidates, and their friends are looking up their interests. The list of men who are mentioned contains the names of Bayard, Morrison, Sloveland and Flower.

The Talk at Washington City. . Washington City, June 10.—The chances of Republican success in the coming campuigu, with Blains and Logge ag standard-conators and representatives who attended the convention have returned to Washing-ton, and generally they express satisfaction with the ticket. Original Blaine men are which the ticket. Original Blaims ment are cheerful, notwithstanding the fact that many of them expect there will be an organized bolt of the independents. They assume that the mass of the bolters will either vote for the Democratic nomines or put another candidate in the field, but in either contingency claim that their losses will be more than companies that for hy large gains.

congress of the trear tosses will be more than compensated for by large gains.

Ropresentative Long, of Massachusotts, whose opinion, owing to the doubtful position of some Massachusotts Ropublicaus, was eagerly sought, said there was no room for doubt about that state. It will certainly cast its votes in the usual way. He does not use its votes in the usual way. He does not at tach much importance to the disaffection in the Republican ranks, and thinks the Dean-carts will find thomselves split up worse when they come to nominate their candidate in July.

On the other hand, Democrats generally talk confidentially of defeating Blaine and Logan. Some of them, like ex-Senator Mc-Honald, who is in town, and who says he knows Blaine well, and admires him as a mane-say that Blaine will make the cauvass so hat that the Democrats will not have any time to less to leave any with him. We have timo to less to keep up with him. Mr. Me. Donald thinks, the Democrats will carry his native state—Indiana—and elect their candidate, whoever he may be.

Senator Kenna, of West Virginia, ridicules the idea of the Republicus carrying that state. The Domocrats, he says, will carry West Virginia and enough others to elect their candidate. Senator Williams, of Kentucky, admits that Baino and Legan are a strong tour, but says the Democrats will least it.

Solid Comfort for Republicans. Solid Comfort for Republicana.
Chicago, June 10.—A special from Bloomington, Ills, the home of Hon. David Davis, has the following: The Daily Londer says: "Ex-Vice President David Davis is evidently well pleased with the results of the Ropublican national convention, judging from the nature of an interview a reporter hold with an intimate friend of the distinguished senator concerning the nominations. The senator has said that the selection of he someter has said that the selection of Into souther has said that the selection of Blaine was but the choice of the people, and in deflance of the politicians and officalidders. Blaine was the popular choice. This was evident before and upon the assembling of the convention. His nomination was inevitable and had to come. The friends of Senator Davis are inclined to believe that he will come entrangely is former. will come out squarely in favor of the Re-publican ticket, and in such a case his name will be mentioned prominently in the candi-dacy for the United States senate to fill the vacancy which will occur in the event of Gen. Logan's election to the vice presidency."

An Interview with Hendricks, INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 10.—Ex-Governor Hondricks has accorded an interview to the United Press correspondent, during which he confirmed the statement that himself and McDonald have had an amicable conference on political affairs, and said that there was no occasion for discord between thom or their political friands. He says his name has been mentioned only in connection with the old ticket, and he does not think that McDonald would antagonize the old ticket if it was before the convention. He thinks that McDonald wants either the presidency or nothing at all, and calculates upon receiving the solid vote of Indiana if the old ticket is not nominated. Hendricks denied that he had reaptly accessed the belief that Titles made. centily expressed the bolief that Tilden would not allow his name to go before the Demo-eratic convention. He had no knowledge of Tilden's purposes as he had not written, see or heard from him since he was in New York two mouths ago.

Ratifying.

New York, June 10.—The young Ropublicans of Harlem have fired the first gun of the campaign by holding a Blaine and Legan ratification meeting. After uncovering a large transparency amid cheers for the candidates, speeches were made by several well-knewn local politicians.

SARATOGA, June 10.—A grand ratification meeting of the Republican presidential ticket was held at the town half in this circ. R producting of the Republican presidential Licket was held at the town half, in this city. R. Hamilton, of Maryland, presided. Speeches were made by the chairman, Ray, Dr. James B. Dunn, of Boston; A. L. Blair, editor of The Saratogian, and others. A telegram of congratulation was forwarded to Mr. Blaine at Augusta; Mo., pledging a Republican principle of 2 200 in Speeches unipority of 2,000 in Saratoga county Fotted Down in a Burry, Hoosevelt, of New York, says he has no intention of botting, and had no objection to Mr. Blaine, who was evidently the choice of the rank and file of the party, and would undoubedly be elected. He didn't think there would be an independent ticket, and said it was too early to make predictions on New York.

The New York Independent will bolt the nomination. HENNEPIN CANAL.

Determined Opposition to It Among House Members.

ome of the Arguments Used Against the Appropriation-Its Champion -'The Minority Danville Report-Mexican Pensions.

WASHINGTON CITY, June 10.-The princh pal point of attack upon the river and harbor appropriation bill, which was before the house, was the item of $300,000 for the Hounephrennul project. Jones, of Wisconsin, objected to outering upon a work of such magnitude by the appropriation of even a small sum in the river and harbor bill, where it would be carried through by its connection with other proposi-tions, and not upon its own merits. It ought to be presented in a separate bill so that it might be discussed in all its bearings and an intelligent conclusion be reached without complication with other matters. Membars might be willing to let it slip-through begans the around its sesmall, but through because the amount is so small, but the altimate cost will be $5,000,000 or $10,-000,000. The route selected for the canal is 000,000. The route selected for the canal is the most expensive of the three, according to the reports of the United States engineers. The latter report that the Marais d'Osier route is most desirable on account of the nature of the soil, the absence of rock, and the topography of the country. It is twenty miles shorter than the Watertown route, and forty miles shorter than the Rock Island route, which is provided for in the bill. Potter, of New York, and Turner, of Kentucky, also opposed the bill. Neece, of Illinois, Stone, of Massachusetts, Henderson, of Illinois, Sianchard, of Louisiana, and Murphy, of lowa, advocated the policy of constructing artificial waterways and improvement of actual theorem theorem. ment of natural streams whenever it would cheapen transportation and open competition with the railroads. Stone, of Massachusotts, thought the time was post when there should be any scruples about the constitutionality of appropriations for internal improvements It should be treated merely as a question of expediency. Judge Murphy was enthusiastic in support of the Hennapin project, which, he said, would afford a changer route for freights from the Mississippi valley—"the corracopia of the world"— and the Atlantic scaboard, which would save to the agriculturists of that region millions of dollars annually extorted by railroad magnates and stock-yard bosses. The fervor of Judge Murphy's speech amusad some of his auditors, but he was congratuated by the friends of the canal. This speech was the first one, either long or short, that Judge Murphy has made in congress. He came to congress to represent the fun-He came to congress to represent the Hen-nepin canal. He has devoted himself day and night, in season and out of season, to working in committee and privately, with individual mombers in behalf of his pot project. He has not interested himself in project. In as not interested insisti anything else that has been before congress, and he has been, within the limits of propriety, all things to all men, to paraphrase the language of the apostle, if by any means, he might win some votes for opening of practical water communication between the Mississippi and Lako Michigan.

A Minority View, Washington City, June 10.—The report of the minority of the senate committee on the Danville riots was presented in the senate, and is a protest against the conclusions of the majority report, backed by arguments which the minority believe prove that report to do injustice to the resolve of Virginia and the control of Virginia and the control of Virginia and the control of Virginia and Virgin report to do injustice to the people of Virgiria. They claim that the riot was a morely local affair, and had no political foundation, and the report dwells upon crimes of violence at the north, alludes to the Cincinuati riots, the Tewksbury alras-house investigation in Massachusetts, the killing of inoffensive negroes in New York and other northern states, and suggested that an investigation into these matters would be as proper a subject of congressional inquiry as

BLOOD ON THE MOON,

But the Signs Balled and the Sensation Was Spoiled.

DURLIN, June 10. - Advices received from Newry state that the disturbances between the Nationalists and Orangemen which broke out on Sunday at that place, have increased during the day to such an alarming extent that the whole town is now in a state of riot, and unless the government can at once send more troops to the scene and sternly put down the ricturs the greatest destruction of life and property will endoubtedly ensue, as the military and police now there seem utterly powerless to control the disorder. The penceable and law-respecting class are paralyzed with with fear, and are of no service whatover to the authorities. The Protestants are obliged to keep themselves in their houses with harriended doors. Those who ventured on the streets during the day were chased hither and thither by a frantic mob and stoned and beaten with clubs. The greater part of the military and constabulary surrounded Orange hall, in which a large number of the Protestants have a thorus and military land with such a large number of the Protestants have gathered, and with loaded riles are holding the crowd at bay. The number of rictors, however, is constantly increasing, and in the ovent of their overpowering the police a tearful scene of bloodshed will follow. At times detachments of the police charge the mob, but with little effect. The center of the riot is at Orange headquarters, where the two parties are stoning each other over the beads of the police. The approach of dark ness is awaited with great auxiety, as a ter-rible fight is anticipated unless help speedily arrives.

LATER.—Contrary to expectations the rioting at Newry subsided about roidinght, both factions, as well as the military and police, being well-nigh exhausted. It is now policyed that the disorder will not be renowed, and that the visiting Orangomen and Nationalists will peaceably return to their

Washington City, June 10.—In a special message, urging an immediate appropriation of $353,000, the amount recommended by the board charged with preparing the gov-ornment exhibit, to secure a complete and brament example, to secure a complete and harmonious governmental collection of articles at the coming world's industrial and cotton centennial exposition, which will open in New Orleans next Docember. The president says: "The importance' purposes and bonelits of the New Orleans exhibition are confinental in their scope. Standing at the threshold of the almost unopened markets of Spanish and Portuguese America, New Orleans is a natural gatoway to their trade, and the exhibition offers to the people of Mexico and Central and South America an adequate knowledge of our farming implements, mera manufactures, cotton and woolen goods, and the like necessities of existence in respect to which those countries are either deficient or supplied to a limited extent. The breaking down of the barriers which still separate us from the republies of America whose productions so entirely complement our own, will aid greatly in removing the disparity of commercial intercurres under which less than 10 and cial intercourse, under which less than 10 per cent of our exports goes to American countries. I trust that congress will realize the urgency of this recommendation, and make its appropriation immediately available; so that the board may lose no time in undertaking the extensive preparations necessary to spread a more intimate knowledge of our governmental institutions and natural resources among the people of our country and of neighboring states, in a way to command the respect due it in the family of nations."

Gen. Abe Buford Shoots Himself Because IIIs "Cross" Was "Too Heavy"-Tom Buford's Crime the Cause,

DANVILLE, Ky., June 10.—Gen. Abe Buford, of Louisville, suicided here by shooting. The following statement was found on a table directed to B. T. Buford, at whose resi dence he was visiting;
To B. T. Burond—Dear Sir: Be not af-

10 B. T. BUFORD—DEAR SIR: Be not al-righted. I have no home to go to and prefer death to any further struggle for life. My cross is too hoavy; I can't keep is out of the dust. Sond my body to my brother, J. II. Buford, Loxington, K.y., and may God have mercy on my bowildered sout. My troubles and those of my unfortunate brother Tom have driven no mad.

Signal. A. BUFORD.

Gun. Buford was a West Point graduate of 1844, was a classmate of Gen. Hancock, and a plebs of Gen. W. T. Shorman. Gen. Buford was widely known among turfinen. His brother, Tom Buford, assassinated Judge Elliott in the streets of Frankfort, and was acquitted and sout to the insane asylum at Anchorage, from which he escaped, but returned a few days ago broken down and d ing.

Gen. Buford was passionately devoted to Tom and bankrupted hinself in defending him. His financial troubles, the loss of his sou, a promising young man, and his broth-er's misfortunes, were the cause of his committing the act. Gen. Abraham Buford, familiarly known over the south and west as "Old Abe Buford," came of a family that traced its crigin to the French Beauforts, and his immediate ances-tors were wealthy land-owners in Virginia and Kentucky, who had thoroughbred horses, and implanted the love of racing in Kon-tucky. The Alexanders, Blackburns and Butords were wealthy Blue Grass farmers, but all of them have broken up except the Alexanders. In the Mexican war Gen. Buterd was braveted on the field for bravery before the walls of Buena Vista. In 1861 he raised several regiments of Kentucky cavalry and was commissioned a Confederate major general Before that he had been superintendent of the Home for Disabled Mexican Soldiers at Harredsburg, Ky. His fortunes, which had bled, were retrieved by a wealthy marriage. and after the war in lived in princely style at his stock farm, Bosque Bouita, a maguif-cent place in the Blue Grass. He owned the great race-horse Euquirer, and was one of the continuou turinen who raised his horses and raced them for pride and pleasure. He was always the victim of misfortune. In 1860 always the victim of misfortune. In 1866, was burned, and he lost $18,000. Ten years ago he bred one of the most remarkable horses that had appeared on the turf, McWhirter. At St. Louis McWhirter ha himself off his legs and came in with both fore legs broken off at the knees, was shot and buried beside the track, where a monument was raised over him. Gen. Buford had a promising son who died after entering manhood, and the old general never recovered. hood, and the old general never recovered from the blow. MY SECOND LOVE, [Will S. Faris.]

I have a confession to make, my wifu; I have fullon in love again, And think the young lady returns my love! Oh, ain't I the worst of men? She is younger than you, this new-found And her cheek is softer, I ween; Her hair is fairer than threads of gold, And her feet are the smallest Pve seen!

She love me, I think (though she says not so); For she smiles whou she sees my face, And often rests in my arms centent, White I hold her in close embrace.

I love her truly as man wer loved;
I miss her what time she's uway;
And the spile with which she bade me goodbye, It blesses me through the day.

And now, my precious, confess the truth. Come: Say you are jealous, do! Before I tell you my two true loves Are my baby Balle and you.

THE DYING ALLICATOR. Affecting Scene at the Gravel-Side of [Arkansaw Traveler.] The alligator that was sent from Florida to the editor of this paper is dead. After life's fitful fover, he sleeps as well as circumstances will admit. The gentleness and persuasion of man have thus far failed to place an alligator on a social basis. In this world of selfishness the alligator has selected his own course and desires to scramble for himself. The glass tank, with a bed of gravel where the reptile could crawl out and sun himself, was looked on, not in the light of a great favor, but as a matter of course. There never was, in either one of his eyes, a single glear of thankful-ness. His tank was shared passively with a brother that came in the same assortment with him, but there nover passed between these descendants from a parent stem a single sign of recognition nor a word of kindly greeting. They would sometimes, in a kind of dreamy forgetfulness, bump their ness together, but they would impedite the transparent without they would immediately turn away, without a change of countenance and fall into deep now folded in death, seemed to be in average health until a few moments before the sum-mons came. No had taken a bath and was lying on the gravel, when his keeper noted a change of countenance. Revolution of expression, with an alligator, has ever been regarded as a procursor of coming dissolution. The owner was summoned to the gravel-side of the sufferer. He seemed to be suffering with moningitis, for his head was hent like a bull-tongue plow, and cords hitherto unobserved arose to the surface of his unobserved arose to the sarrace of hencels, so tightly drawn that they almost cut through the rough hide. He opened one eye and closed it slowly. A Florida man who stood near the tank shook his head on incostly, and an old Florida dog that had doubtless gone through many narrow escapes, walked off to one side and shook with handlife.

Tonnyson reached out one claw and began to feel around. He then extended his hind legs, braced hinself and slowly turned and lay on his back. The old dog, observing this movement, walked away again and laughed in retributive chuckle. The sufferer lay for a time, breathing at long intervals, and then turning, he raised upon his elbows, looked at the sun and fell back doud. This proved that he was a sun-worshiper and con-sequently settles a question which has long been in dispute, Herbert Spencer holding that alligators worship the moon with the morning star as a delegate and the north star as a alternate.

Jesting at the "Thunderer's" Grief. [St. James' Gazette.]
In its sorrow for the lamented Prince Leepold The Times seems to have become absolutely incoherent. "The ancients suid" (as The Times would observe) that trifling griefs speak, while deeper ones are mute. Times has not exactly become mute; but it loes the next best thing, and is as inacticu late as one can reasonably expect. render may find some distraction for his sor-row in wondering what is meant when we hear that "the peculiar distinction" of the "entomment" was "the presence leside the heraldic show of a spontaneous tender griof," or how a "conter of longing love" could "turn a gorgoous ceremonial into a simple access ory."

The writer's intention is unquestionably excellent, and no doubt there is real loyally n the sentence which refers, as far as we can make out, to the nation and the life of her most gracious majesty: "If they could have been given the choice of what sort it was to be, they would have chosen it to be what it has been." The sontiment is excellent which inspires the remark that "to be followed to the grave by the sympathetic lamentations of a whole community belongs to the relation of constitutional royalty to the matien which impersonates itself in its dynasty; though we could wish that it had been couched in language less like that of the Bengalee baboo making his first essay in the in a style that makes its readers laugh.

What the Journalistic Rule Is.

[Providence Journal.]
While we have no desire to underrate the enterprise and perseverence of some men, it can hardly be denied that they too often loss sight of the fact that their proper calling is to guide and direct public opinion. Instead, however, of sluing to afford information or to lead their readers to think, they habitually indulge to violent and reckless writing. The greatest writer for invective is deemed the best member of the staff. An argument ative article would be thought wholly out of place, heavy, dull, and deficient in the popular element. The rule is, better to lie that be dull.

If have known the Plasters to cure Spi nal Weakness where the patient had been confined for months to his bed. A black-smith of my acquaintance was severely introd in the back by the kick of a horse; four Almoock's Ponous Plassiens quickly relieved him of exeruciating agony and cured him in a week. Another patient, suffering with Neuralizia of the Heart, was completely cured in four NATEAN C. UNDERBILL. It is with a feeling of peculiar sadness that we record the passing away from earth of one who has won for himself an unusual degree of appreciation from the wide circle of people with whom he had come in contact during his residence of nearly three years among us-Nathan Channey Underhill who was born at Elyna, Ohio, Merch 13, 1855. While he was yet very small his father removed to New London, in the same state, where he has since made his home. At about the age of sixteen. Nathan first left home for school life, and at seven his first teachtesa began ing of music, which he had since chosen as his special life-work, teaching and studying alternately, and those most competent to judge, attesting his faithfulness To none who know him well, need we recall his geniality and wonderful evenness of disposition, entering into the loys and sorrows of others with a readinees that was never wanting. His tenderness equalied that of any woman. In the family, he very early earned the title of "Mother's boy," and the same characteristics made him in later years the warm friend of little children to whose welfare he was particularly devoted. Those of riper years who enjoy ed his friendship, know that they pos sessed something of enduring value His work at the Institution for the Blind with which he had been connected these past three years, has been eminently successful, not only as a teacher with his pupils in school hours, but as friend and counselor at all times. There was no limit to his use of time and strength those he loved or for those who needed help, and looking back over his life with as, we fail to recali any instance in which his christian love failed to include each individual with whom he came in contact. His religious influence was especially strong. His unfailing cheerfulness, his steadlast christian faith, the tender carnestness with which he led hose under his care to put their trust m that Savior who was his constant friend and inspiration, were quite as marked as his special work in the musical department of the school.

The household at the Institution are bowed with grief; the eyes that see not are tearful, and the voices he had trained with so much care, quiver with sorrow; and the sympathy of the community is with them. The light of one life has been dimmed, but he has entered upon the brightness of immortality.

The funeral will take place at the Institution at ten o'clock to-morrow, the services to be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Hodge, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Brown.

FOURTH OF JULY.

A Glorious Old Time Celebra tion in Janesville.

The Result of the Prelimivary Meet ing Last Evening. A large and patriotic meeting of the business men was held in the common council chamber last evening, to consider the propriety of celebrating the Fourth of July. After a little informal talk the meeting was organized by the election of Mr. H. F. Bliss as chairman, and Mr. John O. Spencer, secretary. The chairman stated that the meeting had been called for the purpose of appointing committees [and making other arrangements for the proper celebration of the Fourth of July. Mr. J. A. Denniston moved that we celebrate the Fourth in a becoming manner, which was adopted by a unanimous Mr. Fred Vankirk moved that a comnittee of two from each ward be appointed as a general committee of arrangements for the celebration, which was adopted, and the following general committee was then selected and approved: First ward-Dr. Henry Palmer and J A. Denniston.

Second ward-L C. Brownell and W. f. Vankirk. Third ward-C. B. Conrad and Richard Valentine. Fourth Ward-S. C. Cobb and Joseph P. Baker.

Fifith Ward-Ed. Heyward and J. B McLean. On motion of Mr. W. T. Vankirk the committee was instructed to fill all vacancies that might occur at the first meeting of the committee. There was considerable discussion to garding the details of the celebration. some of the speakers desiring to instruct the committee. At the suggestion of Captain J. B. Doe, Jr., the committee was instructed to hold a meeting, lay out a general plan of the celebration as near as possible, and report to an adjourned meeting of citizens to be held in the council chamber on Thursday evening of this week.

Mr A. O. Wilson moved that the colobration be held in the court house park-Mr. Charles Atwood moved to refer the matter to the general committee of arrangements, which was adopted.

On motion the meeting adjourned until Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

"Struck it Bich."

Under the above caption the Oshkosh Northwestern, of Saturday, gives the following account of the success of sinkingan artesian well in that city: "Yesterday, at the depth of 107 feet. water was struck that shot up several fact above the surface in the five mob tubing that has been sunk around the bore. The flow of water was so great as to send up stone chips and debris of all kinds that had been created by the drilling. The water came so rapidly as to fill the excawash away the earth between it and the large water gallery dug last fall, and has overflow of the water gallery the lower land back towards the gallery, an escape-wier is now being cut from the gallery towards the lake, so as to let the surplus water run off into the lake. There was no more five-inch tubing, so that there was no means of testing the height to which the water would rise in that sized pipe, but the end of the five-meh pipe was plugged up and a two-inch inserted twelve feet high and the water shot up out of that. The water obtained is about the same as the water delivered from the various artesian wells about town, and of the same hardness. The boring will be into the sand stone beneath, in hopes of striking a little softer water. At any rate this excellent find of water has gone far to solve the problem of future supply." There are many people in this city who believe that a flowing well could be struck most any place west of the bluffs and that too, within a few hundred feet of the surface.

They live neighbors, and so depended on each other to wake up for the train. One of asp on the lounge down stairs, so as to be ready at short notice, and get out of the house quietly and not disturb his wife, who, while she was loyal to Blaine, couldn't see any sense in setting up all night for the privilege of going down to pelebrate his nomination. The man who had gone to bed, woke up at one o'clock. and mistaking the hour for itwo, quietly got up, and after eating a hurried breakcommenced to promenade his neighbor's родве around and chant the scale on his name, commenoing in a high key and gradually inpreasing in volume until all the melody was exhausted. The neighbor had been awake for some time, and was just drop ping off to sleep in a rocking chair when the music outside commenced. It didn't occur to him that any one would be disturbed until his wife quietly came down stairs in Mother Hubbard attire, and said, "My dear, who's sick? some one outside seems to by in trouble." Then it was that the door opened, and the enthusiastic friend was advised to no home and go to bed. Quiet was finally restored. The 2:50 train had a full compliment of Blame admirers, and when our in-

A Terrible War Engine Invented by u Yankee Genlus.

[Boston Cor. Chicago Tribune.]
Up to this dato nothing has been written or printed about it, but the inventor, a well-known builder of locomotives and the originator of many valuable and famious machines, bus so far developed his plans that he is well in the great of them. he is willing to speak of them in a general way while he holds back for the present the secret details of manufacture. To fully appreciate the invention one must imagine a huge steel monster, turble-shaped, impreg-nable to the most forcible missiles of the artillery, creeping over the face of the earth and raining from the machine guns within it showers of bullets and dynamite bombs which work terrible havoc among the enemy. The shell of this "war turtle," as the inventor has christened it, is to be made of tool steel thick, heavy and massive, which no missile can penetrate. It will move on broad wheels shod with black rubber bands, which can take a strong hold on the ground, establish ing so great a traction that the turtle can elimb steep hills, driven by an enormous engine concealed within its body. "Of course," says the inventor, "the weight of the turtle, which must carry ammunition, petroloum in tanks beneath the steel skin and more to man the grass and steer the fight-ing lead, earth, will be meaning but Y have mite bombs a minute, throwing them so far that the turtle will be out of range when ing land craft, will be enormous, but I have carefully studied and calculated and find that I can get enough power from the en-gine to move with sufficient rapidity and clear away whatever obstacles the enomy might erect to stop the lurtle's progress." The sharp, knife-like edges of the monster will be able to cut down small trees and shrubbery, and the terrible force of the engine will be sufficient to plunge it through substantial barricades. Two pilots, pro-tocted from sharpshooters and stray balls by beavy plates, will have positions in the steel head of the creeping battery and guide it by a peculiar mechanical apparatus; and the guns, pointing in all directions, will be able to discharge 6,000 balls a minute. In the ball of the turble, so to speak, is to be placed a machine capable of hurling twenty dyna-

The inventor, who is no Darius Green with his flying machine, but is known as a clear, level-headed man, says that of course the them, a noisy republican, went to bed early, and the other one, less noisy, but and truthe with its guns and dynamite will seem impractical to the average ongineer and mechanic, but he insists that he can build it and work it successfully whenever the government shall have need of such a terrible weapon and death-dealer. Until that time, probably, the essential details of manufacture will be kept secret from all save a few intimate scientific friends who are interested in the development of the scheme. The inventor, whose name cannot be given at present, was lead to conceive of his light ing turtle after noticing that, while the n important changes in naval warfare had been made during recent years, the notable improvements in land fighting were few and Car between.
